

1ST ANNUAL
AFCEA SILICON VALLEY
CYBER & IT SUMMIT
@ MOFFETT FIELD

SPEAKER BIO

COL Brad Rhodes
G6/CIO, 63rd Readiness Division
U.S. Army Reserve | Deputy for Ops,
Energy Threat Analysis Center
Department of Energy (DOE)

Brad Rhodes, Deputy Director for Operations at Energy Threat Analysis Center (ETAC), Office of Cybersecurity, Energy Security, and Emergency Response (CESER), Department of Energy (DOE) in Denver, CO, holds numerous professional certifications and he has 27+ years of experience in the military, government, and private sectors. Brad is a Veteran who continues to serve in the US Army Reserve as Colonel, Cyber Warfare where is the G6/Chief Information Officer for the 63rd Readiness Division delivering trusted communications and cybersecurity across CA, NV, AZ, NM, TX, OK, and AR. Brad's major research includes utilizing Open-Source capabilities to help organizations close security gaps, characterize their cyber operating environments, and gain visibility to stacks of data. He's been known to drown Lego people illustrating the reality of cyber effects.